Earn a dual Google/CompTIA A+ credential

Did you know? The Google IT Support Professional Certificate prepares you for the industry-standard CompTIA A+ Certification.

Google has teamed up with CompTIA, a nonprofit trade organization that's widely recognized in the IT industry, to offer a new dual credential. The material covered by the Google IT Support program, not only provides you with the skills to enter the field of IT Support, but also prepares you for the industry-standard CompTIA A+ certification exams. The benefits of having both the Google IT Support Certificate and CompTIA A+ Certification under your belt include:

- Getting your foot in the door while applying for IT roles - 96% of HR managers use IT certifications as screening criteria for recruitment.
- Future-proofing your career and advancing in your role - Demonstrating continuing value to their employers, CompTIA certified IT professionals are promoted almost twice as often as non certified IT professionals.

[Source: International Data Corporation (IDC)]

If you successfully complete the Google certificate and pass the CompTIA A+ certification exams, you'll be awarded a joint Google/CompTIA badge that demonstrates your accomplishment. This badge can be posted on LinkedIn to make your profile stand out to employers and is aimed to help open the door to IT support roles.

Once you complete the Google IT Support program, we will send you more information on how to get your CompTIA A+ certification, including a discount code to take the exam at 20% off. Stay tuned!